Summer Graduation . . .

Packer To Speak

Elder Boyd K. Packer, assistant to the Council of the Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will deliver the Commencement address Aug. 23 at the BYU summer Commencement exercises.

The academic procession, with the Board of Trustees, faculty and graduates in caps and gowns, will begin at 8:30 a.m. from the Brigham Young stadium and proceed to the Smith Fieldhouse where the services will start at 9:30 a.m.

Elder Packer was instrumental in developing the system of seminars for Indian students throughout the country.

In 1955 he became assistant administrator of Seminaries and Institutes of the Church, and in 1961 was appointed to the Administrative Council of BYU and the United Church School System.

LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION

PTS operators Rick Ott and Dave Epler set up the portable system for one of the many classes and campus departments that are currently utilizing the unique apparatus.

Television System In A Box

able Television System, a miniature television set which can be transported in a small enclosed cart, is being used in various departments on campus.

According to Bernie Edwards, instructor, PTS is being incorporated into the Speech Therapy, English, Counseling, Business Education, Physical Education and other departments.

The TV system is used by CDFR for the training of teachers, class lectures and observation of various aspects of human development.

There are five advantages of the TV setup:

● Focuses attention on one aspect of child behavior at a time. The students see the same thing because camera focuses on one activity at a time.

● Provides flexibility in student observations.

● Allows student to view lab situations in the classroom and discuss them.

● Allows the teacher to store demonstrations and lab observations on video tape for repeated use.

● Provides excellent means of self-evaluation by student teachers.

Student Receives First Samoan M.S. Degree

By Dennis Crandall
Universe News Writer

Later this month Enosa I. Wilson will become the first foreign student from Samoa to receive a master's degree from BYU.

A graduate student in Educational Psychology, he will be excused from Commencement exercises because of the urgent need of his services with the Samoan school system of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

In 1958, after completing a two-year mission for the Church in Western Samoa, Wilson enrolled in the Church College of Hawaii.

ATTENDS BYU

The following year he transferred to BYU, from which he received his bachelor's degree in 1962.

Following his graduation he returned to Samoa to teach, before accepting a teaching position in the Murray, Utah, School District between 1964 and 1966.

He has completed the requirements for his master's degree by attending BYU during the summers of those school years.

FEDERAL GRANT

Last year Wilson was the recipient of a full tuition scholarship plus a $6,000 federal grant to do graduate research in Educational Psychology at the University of Washington Counseling and Guidance Center.

Upon his return to Samoa this summer, Wilson hopes to revise some of the testing patterns and curriculum "to more accurately fit the Polynesian frame of reference."

Writer Finds Hamlet With A Hundred Faces

the search in a search of a writer's mind to find a student writer's mind (writing experience in Alaska)

By Douglas McKinlay
Special to the Universe

In a land where towns cling to the edges of forested islands, there is a place with a hundred different faces. To begin to experience Wrangell, Alaska as the float plane lands down and you taxi across the harbor and up alongside the dock.

A young Indian boy wearing a rain parka secures the plane and you step onto the dock and into the incessant pelting of a temperate rain forest.

THREE VIEWS

But the same summer rain that irritates you is welcomed by the townspeople. They know that should it stop for 24 hours there would be a choking dust everywhere.

Then you notice the faces. On some faces the stories have been plainly carved out, on others the stoical stares mask lives of deprivation and hardship.

Not more than a half-block from the marine air terminal is the face of Al McCay. Al has built his own restaurant-motel complex which finally broke into the black last month.

Right now Al is finishing a river scow he will use as a base of operations for his newly-acquired hobby—scuba diving for gold. He picked up diving from an ex-Navy frogman that used to frequent his restaurant.

Al doesn't expect to strike it rich—but then, who knows?

Up the hill a few blocks is the face of Harold Sinclair. Harold has retired and is just completing his 9th hard-made violin. He picked up the trade during the long arctic nights when he and his wife were teaching Eskimo children in Alaska's interior.

WIDE RANGE

Harold uses the original Stradivarius pattern and has made violins ranging from one-quarter size to cellos. One day he hopes to open his own shop in Fortland, Ore.

In the center of town is the main dirt road, lined with a sidewalk to one side and a boardwalk on the other.

The two walkways seem almost symbolic of the two walks of life in Wrangell. There are the fishermen and lumbermen who live hard, work hard and drink hard.

HARD WORKERS

There are the shopkeepers, clerks and civic leaders who also work hard, but are of a more refined breed.

These are the people who have brought convenience and commercialism to Wrangell.

One of the newer faces in town is Bill Klink, chief of police.

Bill was born and raised in Fontana, Calif. He moved to Wrangell to "get out of the rat race."

He enjoys administering the law in a town where people respect it and where the youth have "freedom by parental consent rather than freedom by rebellion."

Wrangell has many faces. In most of them, you see a stern calmness that comes from people who know what it means to work and who love their retreat.

TRIO IN WRANGELL

Three of the many unique faces worth a visit found by Operation Midnight. Participant Doug McKinlay are those of

Librarian To Meet

Assistant Professor Donald K. Nelson, director of the library at BYU, is participating in a four-week institute learning how to automate libraries.

Held at the University of Missouri at Columbia, the institute for 29 librarians from throughout the United States features specialists in the development of cooperative computer-based library centers.

The institute is one of few offered for the first time to help meet the demand for personnel to plan, design and manage projects for computer-based library systems.

Mr. Nelson, director of the BYU Library since 1951, received his B.S. degree from Utah State University in 1933 and his M.B.A. at the University of Denver in 1949.

BYU Graduate Instructs Astronauts

Special to the Universe

OWNEY, Calif.—Ruel E. Jones, BYU graduate, is in the forefront of the space age. He's a teacher of astronauts.

Jones is a training specialist at Space Division of North American Rockwell Corporation, builder of the Apollo spacecraft command and service modules in which the astronauts will travel to the moon and back.

It is his job to educate the astronauts, NASA flight controllers and North American Rockwell Corporation personnel in the use of Apollo tele-communications systems.

TOP MAN

Jones is one of the specialists in the Training and Support Documentation Department at the Space Division.

In line with his work, Jones has devised a switch guide to help the astronauts.

The device somewhat resembles a slide rule. It has settings for various phases of the mission and shows how the many switches on the communications panels should be set at any particular period.

TEST SET

The first named test of the Apollo spacecraft is scheduled for later this year.

Carrying three astronauts, the Apollo will be launched from NASA's Kennedy Space Center on an earth orbital mission designed to test spacecraft systems under conditions similar to those to be encountered on a moon trip.

This manned flight, the Apollo 7 mission, will be the sixth test flight of the Apollo spacecraft. The astronauts will be boosted in an orbit about 100 nautical miles above the earth by a two-stage Saturn launch vehicle.

STUDENT HERE

Jones, originally from Wilkesburg, Pa., attended Penn State University before taking up studies at BYU where he obtained a Bachelor of Science degree.

He and his wife Danna have two children.

Regarding his part in the lunar exploration program, Jones said: "I am proud to be able to represent the company and its product to our customer, NASA, and to be associated with so many people dedicated to a common goal."

Present at Korean Meetings

BYU President Ernest L. Wilkinson was represented at the International Association of University Presidents in Seoul, Korea, recently by Dr. Spencer J. Palmer, assistant president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Forty-four nations were represented at the meeting in which 150 university presidents and 100 scholars discussed world peace, the recent student violence throughout the world and the role of education in developing nations. President Palmer, also a BYU faculty member and author in Asian Studies, reported that one of the guest speakers was Dr. Luis Romo, who has visited the United States twice and wished to be remembered to President Wilkinson. The agenda included receptions and dinners hosted by the Prime Minister, the Foreign Minister, the Minister of Education, and the President of the Republic of Korea. Palmer not only addressed the meeting assembly, but received an honorary membership in the organization. Dr. Palmer reported that he presented President Park Chung-hee a copy of one of his books on Korean-American relations. The president and his wife seemed surprised that he could speak the Korean language," he remarked.

Y Racketmen Win Matches

BYU's traveling tennis team defeated the Heidelberg Tennis Club, 5-4, in Heidelberg, Germany last week.

Zdravko Mincek, playing the number one singles for BYU, won his match 6-3, 6-0.

Dave George was the only other singles winner, but the Cougars swept the doubles matches with the teams of Mincek and Patrick Landau and Larry Hall-George, Eric Baer-Chuck Pate.

The match took about nine hours to complete, with rain interrupting play on the clay courts, forcing the competition indoors.

The Cougars also defeated the Yugoslavia Geta Cup Team—a squad made up of the best young players in Yugoslavia—8-1. The only BYU loss was suffered by Larry Hall in the number two singles spot.

The next Cougar matches will be in split Yugoslavia, the home of Mincek. He will be playing for the split team against the Cougars.

The BYU squad is scheduled to play in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, the home of Sima Njolic, an outstanding ex-BYU tennis star, and then play in Rome.

"Our Meats Are the Greatest.

Why? My Daddy was a missionary in Argentina where they grow great beef, and ever since he returned from his mission, he's tried to find meats like he had eaten there. He's found them... a premium beef, the tenderest meat you'll ever eat. Once you try them you'll agree—our meats are the greatest."
